DETAILED ACTION

- 1. This action is responsive to the application filed on 11/23/2001.
 - This action is made Non-Final.
- 2. Claims 1-8 are pending in the case. Claim 1 is an independent claim.

Drawings

3. The drawings filed on 11/23/2001 have been approved by the examiner.

Claim Objections

4. Claim 8 is objected to because of the following informalities: "a process to keep track the conversion status". This should read better as "a process to keep track of the conversion status". Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

5. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Art Unit: 2178

- 6. Claims 2, and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Claim 2 recites "This support can be for the multiple documents" line 3. The phrase "can be" is vague, because it might or might not perform the support.
- 7. Claims 2, and 5 recite the limitation "the same meeting" in claim 2, lines 3-4. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim. There is no previous "same meeting" to refer to in this claim or claim it depends from.
- 8. Claim 5 recites the limitation "the communication method" in claim 2, lines 3-4. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim. There is no previous "same meeting" to refer to in this claim or claim it depends from. However, claim 2 recites a "communication interface" lines 2-3.
- 9. Claims 6-7 recite the limitation "the newly arriving jobs" in lines 2-3. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim. There is no previous "newly arriving jobs" to refer to in this claim or claim it depends from.
- 10. Claims 6-7 recite the limitation "the assigned priority" in lines 2-3. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim. There is no previous "assigned priority" to refer to in this claim or claim it depends from.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

11. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

12. Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Halahmi (Pat.# 2003/0023637, 1/30/2003, filed 2/28/2001).

Regarding independent claim 1, Halahmi discloses a web browser or agent for requesting, from a document source—means to receive outside agent document conversion request--, a document to be displayed in the browser's format. The document source, then sends the requested document to a conversion server for converting the document into a format compatible with the browser (0035, fig.1).

Moreover, Halahmi discloses the conversion server using specific converters for converting specific-format portions or modules in the document, into a format compatible with the browser (0037-0039, 0041). In other words, the conversion server determines (arranges the converters that are to be implemented for converting the particular order in which the modules are submitted to the server), and calls the specific converters which are to convert the modules in an associated format understood by the converters—means for calling different conversion engines.

Art Unit: 2178

Regarding claim 2, which depends on claim 1, Halahmi discloses the streamed conversion of documents using multiple format-specific converters for simultaneously support document modules conversion server using a plurality of specific converters for converting specific-format portions or modules in the document, into a format compatible with the browser. Each converter handles a specific format (0038-0039, 0041).

Regarding claim 4, which depends on claim 1, Halahmi discloses the conversion server using a plurality of specific converters for converting specific-format portions or modules in the document, into a format compatible with the browser. Each converter handles a specific format (0038-0039, 0041).

Regarding claim 5, which depends on claim 2, Halahmi discloses the conversion takes place on the fly—real-time conversion—or before a request is made (0038-0039, 0041).

Regarding claim 6, which depends on claim 3, Halahmi discloses a buffer for queuing incoming conversion requests, in order to answer requests sequentially—based on assigned priority— (0042). In this case the buffer allows the conversion engines to place conversion jobs in the queue or waiting list, when the engines are already working on another job.

Regarding claim 7, which depends on claim 3, Halahmi discloses a buffer for queuing incoming conversion requests, in order to answer requests sequentially—based on assigned priority-- (0042). In this case the buffer allows the conversion engines to place conversion jobs in the queue or waiting list, when the engines are already working on another job.

Regarding claim 8, which depends on claim 3, Halahmi discloses a buffers for queuing incoming conversion requests, in order to answer requests sequentially, and non-sequentially of a document which goes through several stages of conversion (0042, fig.2B). In this case the buffer allows the conversion engines to skip one job and take another job, thus tracking which jobs is to be prioritized.
